HSBC Bermuda shows its appreciation for The Coalition for the Protection of Children

This week HSBC Bank Bermuda employees made a donation of $5,725.00 to The Coalition for the Protection of Children (“CPC”). This was the second year in a row that funds were raised for charity by HSBC Operations, Services and Technology (“HOST”) employees, through their Denim Day donations collected over the previous year.

Kevin Oates, Head of Information Technology at HSBC Bermuda was joined by Teresa Watts from the HOST Social Club for the presentation to CPC and shared, “Choosing from a list of over 100 registered charities, employees selected the CPC as the charity they most wanted to give back to, due to the significant and positive impact it continues to make, as advocates for the protection of all children in Bermuda against abuse and neglect.”
